

Rewards for Writers Who Submit to The Great Margin

We are offering publication on the 'Dare to Write?' website, a credit which can be added to a writer's CV and, to those who are accepted for publication, editing of their piece. Should the writer's work be chosen as the pick of the month, they will win £50 in Mr B's Emporium book vouchers, which allows books to be ordered via email and sent anywhere in the world.

In addition, all entrants whose work fits the criteria will have the option of forwarding their writing to local and national archives when they submit to The Great Margin. These archives allow writers to participate in creating a record for future generations of the effects of Covid-19 on people's daily lives. This is made possible by our partnerships with projects such as 'Corona Captured' from The Bath Record Office.

A selection of The Great Margin entries will be showcased on an interactive online map in September 2020. We are also offering some participants the chance to present their work as part of an international online event, in association with the 'Stay-at-Home!' Festival

Overall, The Great Margin hopes to meet the needs of writing communities during the pandemic by providing a sense of togetherness, inspiration, laughter and light relief. It is hoped that the project will help writers cope during this period of isolation.

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND

