

Stories, Books and Words

This category is calling for stories about what people are writing, reading, and listening to during this global pandemic. We are interested in writing which explores the relationship between the inner world of story and external reality.

We are looking for prose pieces of up to 750 words. You may submit up to three pieces, as long as your combined word count does not exceed 750. We are accepting: blog posts, articles, anecdotes, nonfiction, memoir, bullet-point style articles, nature writing, and personal essays.
